

24-core fiber distribution box termination

AI Overview

A 24-core fiber distribution box provides a secure, organized point for splicing, splitting, and terminating up to 24 optical fibers, supporting both indoor and outdoor FTTH/FTTx networks.

Overview A 24-core fiber distribution box is designed to manage, protect, and distribute optical fibers efficiently. It serves as a termination point where feeder cables connect to drop cables, allowing for splicing, splitting, and distribution of fiber signals in a compact, organized enclosure. These boxes are suitable for wall-mounted or pole-mounted installations and are built to withstand environmental factors with IP65 or IP68 protection ratings.

Termination and Splicing Splice Trays: The box includes splice trays to hold fusion or mechanical splices, keeping fibers organized and protected. Each tray can accommodate 1x8 or 1x16 PLC splitters if needed.

Fiber Routing: Fibers are routed through dedicated paths to prevent tangling or interference. Bend radius control is maintained at $\geq 40\text{mm}$ to avoid signal loss.

Pigtails and Adapters: Drop cables are spliced to pigtails, which terminate at SC, LC, or FC adapters. The box can house up to 24 SC or 12 LC duplex adapters for easy connection to end devices.

Cable Management Feeder and Drop Cable Clamping: The box provides clamping for both feeder and drop cables, ensuring secure placement and strain relief.

Storage Space: Extra fiber slack, pigtails, and drop cables can be stored in designated compartments for maintenance convenience.

Flip Design: Some boxes feature a flip-up distribution panel or installing plate for easier access during installation and maintenance.

Installation and Protection Material: Boxes are made from SMC, ABS, or flame-retardant UV-resistant materials, providing durability and lightweight handling.

Environmental Resistance: IP65/IP68 ratings ensure dustproof, waterproof, and UV-resistant performance for outdoor and indoor use.

Mounting Options: Wall or pole mounting is supported, with secure locking mechanisms to prevent unauthorized access.
