

Bolivian electrical distribution box parts manufacturer

AI Overview

Key suppliers of electrical distribution box parts in Bolivia include Emelec, Bolivian Electric, INTELECTRIC, and ELECTRORED, offering both local distribution and imported components. Leading Companies Emelec is a Bolivian company specializing in the importation, distribution, and installation of electrical and electronic equipment for residential, construction, and industrial use. They provide technical engineering services for electrical systems, including control, automation, and distribution, and can supply parts from top European and American brands across Bolivia. Bolivian Electric focuses on high, medium, and low voltage electrical products, maintaining a wide stock of certified materials. They offer technical support and immediate response for industrial and construction projects, making them a reliable source for distribution box components. INTELECTRIC, founded in 2007, imports and distributes industrial electrical materials for automation, protection, and electrical distribution. They operate in La Paz, Cochabamba, and Santa Cruz de la Sierra, providing direct factory imports, technical support, and post-sale services. Their catalog includes a variety of distribution box parts suitable for industrial applications. ELECTRORED is a Bolivian supplier specializing in low, medium, and high voltage electrical materials. They provide a range of components for electrical distribution systems, catering to both industrial and commercial needs. Additional Resources For bulk purchasing or connecting with verified buyers and importers, platforms like Go4WorldBusiness list Bolivian electrical distribution box suppliers, which can be useful for sourcing parts at competitive prices.
