

Customized Photovoltaic Combiner Box Price List

AI Overview

Customized PV combiner boxes typically range from $800 to $2,500 per unit, depending on system size, voltage, protection rating, and monitoring features.

Price Ranges and Factors The cost of a photovoltaic combiner box varies widely based on system voltage, number of string inputs, protection features, and smart monitoring options. Small residential systems (5–10 kW) using 600V DC combiner boxes with 1–6 string inputs generally fall at the lower end of the price spectrum, while larger commercial or utility-scale systems (20–50 kW or more) using 1000V–1500V DC combiner boxes with advanced monitoring and arc fault detection can reach the higher end of the range ($800–$2,500 per unit).

Customization Options Manufacturers like LETOP provide highly customized solutions tailored to project-specific requirements, including:

- System voltage compatibility (600V, 1000V, 1500V DC)
- Number of string inputs and outputs
- IP65/IP66 protection ratings for outdoor durability
- Optional smart monitoring systems with RS485/MODBUS-RTU communication
- Arc fault detection, fast shutdown, and fireman switch functions

Additional Cost Considerations Installation is typically not included in the unit price and can add $200–$500 depending on complexity. IP rating affects cost: IP65-rated boxes may cost 10% more than IP54-rated units but offer longer lifespan in harsh environments.

Maintenance and component replacement: Fuses and other internal components may need replacement every 5–7 years, while the box itself can last 15–20 years.

Value of Advanced Features Modern combiner boxes often include integrated communication, data logging, and environmental monitoring, which justify higher prices by enabling remote system management, predictive maintenance, and performance optimization. Modular designs allow for system expansion without full...
