AI Overview

The price of Anti-Hook Grid Cable Trays varies widely depending on material, size, and finish, typically ranging from $20 to $100 per meter for standard industrial-grade trays.

Overview of Anti-Hook Grid Cable Trays

Anti-Hook Grid Cable Trays are a type of wire mesh or grid cable tray designed to prevent cables from snagging during installation and maintenance. They are commonly used in industrial, commercial, and institutional settings to support and organize electrical cables while allowing excellent ventilation and heat dissipation. The open-lattice design reduces heat buildup and simplifies modifications or expansions of cable systems.

Materials and Variants

- Galvanized Steel: Offers strength and corrosion resistance, suitable for indoor and outdoor use.
- Stainless Steel (304 or 316 grade): Ideal for harsh chemical, high-humidity, or high-temperature environments.
- Aluminum: Lightweight and corrosion-resistant, easier to handle for large installations.
- Plastic or FRP: Non-conductive and corrosion-resistant, used where electrical isolation is critical.

Factors Affecting Price

- Material: Stainless steel trays are more expensive than galvanized or aluminum trays.
- Size and Load Capacity: Wider trays or those designed for heavy-duty loads cost more.
- Finish: Powder-coated or hot-dip galvanized finishes increase durability and price.
- Accessories: Anti-hook features, bends, junctions, and mounting hardware add to the total cost.
- Length: Standard trays are usually 3 meters long, with longer sections or custom lengths affecting price.

Typical Price Range

While exact prices vary by supplier and region, industrial-grade anti-hook grid cable trays generally range from $20 to $100 per meter, depending on the material and specifications. For large projects, bulk orders may reduce the per-meter cost.
