

Price of Dutch optical cable brackets

AI Overview

Prices for optical cable brackets in the Netherlands vary by material, type, and supplier, typically ranging from a few euros per unit to higher costs for specialized or bulk orders.

Product Types and Materials Optical cable brackets and clamps are essential for securing fiber optic cables in FTTx and ADSS installations. Common types include:

- Standard cable clamps for drop cables
- ADSS brackets for aerial fiber installations
- Triangular or stackable brackets for multi-cable arrangements

Materials commonly used are UV-resistant thermoplastics, galvanized steel, aluminum alloy, and stainless steel, each offering different durability, corrosion resistance, and mechanical strength. Some brackets are designed to withstand extreme temperatures (-40°C to +120°C) and aggressive environmental conditions, ensuring long-term reliability.

Pricing Overview While exact prices fluctuate based on supplier, quantity, and specifications, general guidance includes:

- Basic thermoplastic or small clamps: typically €2–€5 per unit
- Galvanized steel or aluminum brackets: approximately €5–€15 per unit
- High-strength, corrosion-resistant, or stackable brackets: can reach €20–€50 per unit, especially for bulk or industrial-grade applications

For large-scale projects, suppliers often provide bulk discounts and OEM pricing based on detailed specifications.

Suppliers and Ordering Several Dutch suppliers and distributors offer optical cable brackets:

- MefiberOptic.com: Provides a wide range of clamps and brackets for fiber optic deployment, including OEM options. Pricing can be obtained by sending detailed configurations or samples for cost calculation.
- Go4WorldBusiness Netherlands suppliers: Offer stackable, corrosion-resistant brackets suitable for high-voltage and low-voltage cables, with direct stock availability and bulk order options.
- Local distributors: Many suppliers in the Netherlands provide live chat or direct contact for quotes, allowing for up-to-date pricing and technical advice.
