

Price of network cable fiber optic cable socket panel

AI Overview

Fiber optic wall outlets and socket panels typically range from $5 to $50 per unit, depending on port capacity, adapter type, and build quality.

Overview of Fiber Optic Boxes and Sockets

Fiber optic wall outlets, socket panels, and termination boxes are essential for FTTH (Fiber-to-the-Home) and FTTB (Fiber-to-the-Building) networks, providing secure indoor termination points for fiber cables. They are designed to protect fragile fiber splices, ensure reliable signal transmission, and support SC, LC, or FC adapters.

Common Types and Features

- Mini Fiber Optic Socket Panels: Compact, wall-mounted or desktop units for single or multiple fibers. Typically include a cover, base, screws, and heat-shrinkable sleeves. Suitable for SC or LC duplex adapters.
- 2-Port Fiber Outlet Boxes: Designed for 2-core splicing and termination, with dual-layer structure for fiber management and flexible cable entry from front, bottom, or back. Often used in residential or small business premises.
- FTTH Wall Plates: Slim-profile faceplates for indoor fiber termination, dust-proof, and optimized for drop cable splicing. Can support single or multiple ports, including SC simplex, LC duplex, or FC adapters.

Port Capacities

- Single fiber or 1-2 ports for small installations
- 4, 6, 8, 12, 16, 24 ports for higher-density networks

High-density panels for enterprise or multi-unit buildings

Materials and Durability

- Constructed from high-impact, flame-retardant ABS plastics or similar materials
- Removable protective hoods for dust protection
- Designed for long-term indoor use with minimal signal loss

Price Range

- Single-port or mini wall outlets: Approximately $5-$15 per unit
- 2-4 port fiber outlet boxes: Around $10-$25 per unit
- High-density panels (12-24 ports): Typically $30-$50 per unit, depending on brand and features

Prices vary based on port count, adapter type, material quality, and supplier. Bulk purchases or wholesale orders ma...
