

Southern European Explosion-proof Distribution Box Brands

AI Overview

Leading Southern European manufacturers of explosion-proof distribution boxes include COELBO (Italy) and Atex Delvalle (Spain), offering ATEX and IECEx certified solutions. COELBO (Italy) COELBO s.r.l., based in Brugherio, Italy, designs and manufactures a wide range of explosion-proof electrical equipment, including enclosures, distribution boxes, local control stations, pushbuttons, and cable glands. Their products are suitable for potentially explosive atmospheres and are widely used in industrial applications requiring high safety standards. COELBO provides stainless steel enclosures, armored cables, and installation accessories, ensuring compliance with international safety standards for hazardous zones. Atex Delvalle (Spain) Atex Delvalle specializes in custom-made explosion-protected solutions, including local control stations, distribution boxes, terminal boxes, and large enclosures. Their products are manufactured in stainless steel AISI 304L or 316L and GRP polyester, offering flexibility for different industrial requirements. Atex Delvalle enclosures are ATEX, IECEx, and UL certified, suitable for Zones 1, 2, 21, and 22, and can withstand extreme temperatures and outdoor conditions. They provide configurable options for pushbuttons, switches, meters, and internal layouts, making them ideal for hazardous areas in chemical, petroleum, and marine industries. Warom Group Warom, although not limited to Southern Europe, offers explosion-proof distribution boxes and control equipment compliant with IEC, ATEX, and IECEx standards. Their products are widely used in petroleum, chemical, marine, and mining industries, providing robust solutions for hazardous locations. Warom's range includes aluminium and stainless steel enclosures, LED lighting, motor switches, and cable connectors. Key Considerations When selecting a manufacturer in Southern Europe, consider: Certific...
